JUDGES

Sandy Arledge - San Diego, CA

A lifelong Quarter Horse enthusiast, Sandy Arledge moved to California in 1970 with two horses. In 1974, she purchased Bar Mesa, the cornerstone of her breeding program, and established Sandy Arledge Quarter Horses, Inc. For over 30 years, the business offered quality boarding for horses, bred hundreds of mares on the farm and shipped semen, both nationally and internationally. The breeding program resulted in a number of World Champions, countless state and local champions, and has been named Pacific Coast Leading Breeding of Performance Horses many times.

Bill Enk – Paso Robles, CA

Bill Enk has been in the horse business his whole life specializing in the cow horse events. He is currently the Director of Judges for the National Reined Cow Horse Association and also holds judges cards with the AQHA, NRCHA, NCHA, NRHA and the American Paint Horse Association. He's judged most major events including: The AQHA World Show, The NRCHA Snaffle Bit futurity, The NCHA futurity, and the NRHA futurity. His focus is on the consistent improvement of the cow horse judging.

Pat Wickenheiser – Agua Dulce, CA

Pat Wickenheiser runs Wickenheiser Training Center where he specializes in reining horses and trains cow and rope horses. Pat has been a NRHA judge for over 20 years and an AQHA specialized judge for 10 years. He's been a finalist in every NRHA major reining event, NRCHA events and has been in the top 5 at the AQHA/APHA world shows on several occasions. His students have also competed and won many awards and championships. Pat has conducted clinics and judged nationally and internationally.
